Publishing 101: A Free Publishing Workshop

Gain valuable insight on publishing your work with an expert on academic and trade publishing.

You have completed your dissertation, drafted your article, or prepared your book proposal. How do you identify the right publisher and venue for your work? What is the best way to approach an editor? What questions should you ask, and what questions should you be prepared to answer? Join Debbie Gershenowitz, executive editor at the University of North Carolina Press, at this workshop where she will share tips for authors ranging from conceptualizing an idea for publication to promoting your published work.
