

The Rangel and Pickering Fellowships are U.S. Department of State programs administered by Howard University that prepare individuals for careers as Foreign Service Officers in the U.S. Department of State.

They provide benefits of up to $106,000 over two years for graduate school, internships, and professional development. When fellows complete the program, they are offered employment with the State Department Foreign Service as U.S. diplomats, embarking on a uniquely rewarding career of international service.

The program welcomes students and college graduates with any major and encourages the application of members of minority groups historically underrepresented in the State Department, women, and those with financial need. Eligibility requirements include U.S. citizenship, a GPA of at least 3.2 and intention to start graduate school in fall 2023.
